

Disclaimer

The project presented herein is in its initial, conceptual phase and can be modified, changed or even abandoned (e.g., due to economical, technological or regulatory reasons) and nothing on this website shall be considered as a final and binding description or view of the project, or any of its parts or components, or with regards to its execution.

Information and materials on this website are not to be considered as investment advice. The cryptocurrency market is highly volatile. You should carefully consider whether cryptocurrency is right for you considering your circumstances and financial resources. By following information and materials on the website, you acknowledge that you have not sought investment advice from the author(s), or any parties formally connected to the author(s), as said author(s) and parties may not provide such advice. You are not expected, or offered, to invest, buy, or perform any related financial activities in any shape or form based on any information on this website, and you acknowledge that any such actions are solely of your personal responsibility